

Step up for Safety

When it comes to the workplace, safety isn't just a word. We talk the talk, but we also need to walk the walk. By participating in Steps for Life - Walking for Families of Workplace Tragedy, you can do just that! Not only will your participation in this annual fundraising walk contribute to Threads of Life - a vital national charity supporting families impacted by workplace tragedies - but you'll also be part of demonstrating a collective commitment to health and safety within your workplace.

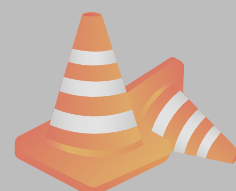

Teams for Steps for Life come in all sizes - assemble three or more walkers, create a unique team name, and set a fundraising goal. Let's showcase the importance of health and safety, compete with other teams across Canada, and make a difference in the lives of families across the country.

Let's step up for safety together! Join an existing team or create your own at www.stepsforlife.ca.

WorkSafeNB's 'Focus on Safety Video' competition

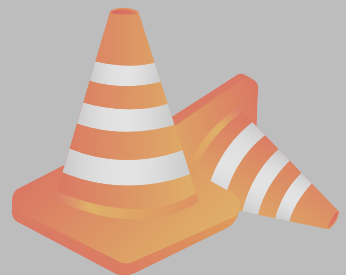

The highly anticipated annual Focus on Safety Video competition is calling on New Brunswick's high school students to showcase their creative talents. This initiative not only provides a platform for artistic expression but also aims to raise awareness about construction safety, critical for teens and young adults entering the construction world.

Did you know that young workers often face unique challenges when starting their careers in construction? Here are some essential construction safety facts for the emerging workforce:

- PPE is Key: Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) is a must. From hard hats to steel-toed boots, proper gear ensures protection on the construction site.
- Communication is Crucial: Clear communication is vital on a construction site. Newcomers should feel empowered to ask questions and seek guidance from experienced colleagues.
- Stay Alert to Hazards: Construction sites are environments with potential hazards. Being vigilant and aware of surroundings is essential for personal and group safety.
- Mental Health Matters: The construction industry can be demanding. It's crucial for young adults to prioritize mental health and seek support if needed.

This video competition not only offers a chance to win $1,000 but also serves as a platform to share essential safety messages. Help spread the word and contribute to building a safer construction industry for the next generation. Empower the workforce of tomorrow, with knowledge and creativity!
